

LIVING IN FULHAM

Knight Frank

Fulham's eclectic feel and strong European presence make it popular with students, young professionals and families, providing a sense of community that most other areas of central London struggle to match.

Situated in south west London, Fulham is just a short distance from central London. The area is popular with junior doctors at universities across London, partly due to work placements at hospitals such as Charing Cross, Chelsea and Westminster or St George's. Most students looking in the area ask for two or three-bedroom flats. There is a healthy quota of bars and restaurants in the area including the critically acclaimed River Cafe and the Harwood Arms, the first pub in London to receive a Michelin star. And access to the M4 and M3 roads allow an easy journey to Heathrow and Gatwick airports, with Heathrow just 16 miles away.

Best known for:

The Hurlingham Club, the Oxford and Cambridge boat race, Fulham FC and Chelsea FC.

Borough:

London Borough of Hammersmith and Fulham

Social and cultural attractions:

As well as cinemas, a theatre and the historic Fulham Palace, there is a vast choice of coffee shops, pubs, bars and restaurants, including The Harwood Arms, which was the first London pub to be awarded a Michelin star for its food.

Sport and leisure facilities:

South Park and Bishops Park are great for running and cycling, while Hurlingham Park hosts an annual polo competition. The exclusive Hurlingham Club offers impressive facilities and events, but the membership waiting list is currently 13 years.

Getting around:

Putney Bridge, Parsons Green, Fulham Broadway, Imperial Wharf, West Brompton

Our favourite places:

The Harwood Arms, a Michelin star gastropub; Manson, a brasserie-style restaurant; White Horse Pub, renowned for its summer barbecues; Del Aziz restaurant, for Mediterranean food; and North End Road market.
