The Property

Dating from the late 18th century Bethune House is a fine Grade II* Listed property with a sought-after address in the heart of the historic market town of Farnham. With over 5000 square feet of accommodation over four floors, Bethune House is a wonderful illustration of a Georgian townhouse with later sympathetic extensions. Having been designed for multi-generational living in recent years, the property offers excellent flexible space whilst still reflecting the traditions of a Georgian home. There are a number of memorable rooms and elegant architectural features within the house, most notably the main entrance hall which leads to a magnificent oval shaped suspended staircase with a continuous graceful banister rising from the ground to the second floor, all flooded with light from above.

On the first floor and in keeping with tradition, is a magnificent drawing room with a log effect gas fire, stone surround and double doors onto a private terrace with steps down to the beautiful floral garden and lawn. In total, there are six bedrooms and four bath/shower rooms providing more than ample space for most families. Beautifully presented throughout, Bethune House is a truly special property and one of Farnham's most notable houses.

Outside

Outside, the gardens reflect the elegance of the interiors being partially walled and surrounded by attractive trees allowing for privacy. There is a wide central lawn enclosed by mature beds, a discreet stone terrace adjacent to the kitchen and a further raised terrace accessed from the drawing room.

Parking is offered behind electric gates on the rear driveway and within a double depth garage.
