Rystead House is a charming detached house positioned on the edge of the popular village of Chiddingfold. The house is believed to have been built in the 13th century. It was originally built as a medieval hall house with a cross passage. The stunning fireplace in the hall is believed to date back to 1545. This substantial property spans 5,000 sq ft and features six bedrooms, making it ideal for a large family or those who enjoy spacious living.

The house is an example of classic architecture, with a red tiled roof and a timeless brick facade. The elegant design harmonizes with the surrounding woodland backdrop. The winding driveway adds to the property's charm.

Inside, the house offers a well-balanced layout with superb ceiling heights throughout. Large windows allow natural light to flood the space, enhancing the warm and inviting atmosphere.

The principal bedroom suite is a standout feature, offering an en suite bathroom and ample closet space. The additional five bedrooms are also generously sized, providing plenty of room for family members or guests.
